

Selwyn Hall new draping system

18/02/2010

A fresh look for Selwyn Community Hall was provided by a new stage and hall draping system installed by bright*.

bright* supplied a new set of coloured stage curtains complete with a hand pulled track; a further set of black upstage curtains, two border bars and set of stage legs fitted to swivel mechanisms, plus a complete set of new hall curtains for their high level windows.

“The new system completely transformed the look of the hall” commented bright* project manager Joe Rockett. “The installation had to fit around the existing commitments of the hall, and to be completed in time for the annual Pantomime”.

bright* chose a mixture of black wool serge materials for the stage and bright blue dimlan for the front curtains and windows. The materials were chosen due to their durability and fire retardancy. The stage tracking system was from Halls T60 range of products which are a cost effective option for the smaller stage where curtain sizes are limited.

Project Manager Joe Rockett worked alongside the hall committee to design a system that offered flexibility, ease of use and future upgrade opportunities. Selwyn Community Hall is a busy resource and sees a wide mix of both local groups and users, private hirers and educational groups, and the new resource gives users a professional standard of stage system.
